

Sep Regular Summary Cheatsheet

Paper 1

- Past Paper Practice
- Went through some of the “Top 8 Question Types”
- Applied skills developed throughout previous 3 cycles
- Extra Reading Exercises (Grammar-related) are included

To do practices: Please make sure you go through previous notes if you need more practices. The key point to pay attention to is "application". When you see particularly difficult questions,

Paper 2

- 10+ Formulas for common situations - memorize effectively by applying them.
- Sentence patterns - must be used in homework in order to learn them quickly
- 4 Sample writings - remember the tips and do not overthink
- Frameworks & Brainstorming strategies

Paper 3

- Highlighting strategies
- TAP (tone, audience, purpose)
- Common Traps
- The sequence of highlighting
- How to convert Datafile points into answers while using the correct tone and register
- Went through one of the hardest DSE questions

Paper 4

- Group discussions strategies x2
- Formulas x2
- Scenario trainings x3
- Focused on HKEAA scoring system: especially IO, CS

English ability.

- HF vocab
- Expressions
- Exam-based applications

Example of Student Homework:

Perfect starter... very good use of framework + SP

Framework [Ask any stranger on the street where they are going to run their errands and there are chances that supermarkets would be their destination. Did the consumers consider going to the wet markets? Certainly, when the dominant chains of supermarkets are supported by large enterprises, wet markets are losing their competitive edge over them. Why do consumers prefer frequenting supermarkets? I believe that there are a multitude of factors leading to this phenomenon. We should dig deep into the setbacks of wet markets and the difference in consumption habits to find the reason behind it before this tradition goes down the path of no-return.]

Formulas []

SP: IE [Convenience definitely tops the list when it comes to grocery shopping. Living in this fast-paced metropolitan, Hong Kong people ought to work effectively and efficiently. Students, businessmen, not to mention working housewives have a packed schedule, they have lots to do on top of preparing their daily meals. This is when convenience in supermarkets has a slight edge over wet markets. Supermarkets contain a large variety of goods, customers are exposed to different food choices, and you can buy anything in one go.]

SP: Example [Ranging from packaged goods, partly processed food, pre-made ready-to-go lunch boxes, etc. the meal would be ready and served easily after light touch-ups. Think about the]

Clear elaborations backed by very nice descriptions - in particular, it is smooth and there isn't much redundancy

Make sure you understand that Paper 2, Paper 3, Paper 4 all work in the same way:

Applications = Shortcut 5

Time Management Skills

- Set measurable and clear goals
- Goals have to be challenging
- Time blocks have to be 30 min+ or longer to create deep focus
- Use strong application and linkages (apply on real scenarios and then link other skills at the same time)
- Get feedback from professionals
- Repeat